Classified Staff Climate Survey Executive Summary February 2014

Research has shown that the professional climate of an organization influences its outcomes. Climate can be defined as behaviors within a workplace or learning environment that can influence whether an individual feels personally safe, listened to, valued, treated fairly, and with respect. In order to evaluate the professional climate in the Aurora Public Schools as perceived by employees, the eighth annual classified staff survey was administered in January of 2014.

Survey Development

The Classified staff survey was first administered during the spring of 2007. The items were developed with input from the Classified Employees Council, staff focus groups, district leadership, and the Division of Accountability and Research. The items were designed to reflect attitudes related to clarity of vision, communication, morale, program support, trust, and work conditions.

The main content of the survey has not changed over the past three years. The only change to the administration of the survey was in the collection of demographic information. This change occurred during the 2012-13 year; the item related to years of service in the district was removed, primarily to ensure the confidentiality of staff at district sites with smaller pools of respondents.

Survey Participants

The Classified staff climate survey was provided to all staff via the use of an on-line survey tool or by hard copy in January 2014. A total of 836 surveys were completed with 87% submitted on-line. The percentage of responses to the survey represented 46% of the district's classified staff. This response rate was 5% less than the survey response rate from the previous year. The total percentage of staff responding to the survey since its inception in 2007 can be found in Table 1.

Table 1. Classified Survey: Historical Percent Response Rates

Job Classification	Total	2007	2008	2009	2010	2011	2012	2013	2014	8-Yr Ch.
Overall	836	39%	41%	70%	67%	59%	59%	51%	46%	+12%

Note. Total reflects number of survey responses in 2014.

The number of staff responding to the survey has ranged from 46% to 59% over the past four years. These rates are significantly greater than those of the first two years of implementation (approximately 7% greater). However, the trend for the response rate has been declining over the last five years since reaching a peak response rate of 70% in 2009. Of the staff who responded to questions about job location and job classification, 75.0% indicated they worked at a school site, and 37.1% selected paraeducator/educational assistant as their job classification.

Survey Results: Overall

The survey items have been examined based on overall and item specific responses. The items have remained relatively consistent between years allowing us to perform a simple longitudinal examination of overall results. All items were worded in such a way that agreement indicates favorable outcomes. Table 2 illustrates the overall agreement rates for the past two years.

Table 2. Overall Survey Agreement Rates

% Disagree/Strongly Disagree			Neutral %		% Agree/Strongly Agree
2013	2014	Change	2013	2014	2013	2014	Change
13.2%	13.0%	-0.2%	18.7%	18.8%	68.2%	68.2%	0.0%

The data indicate that overall district agreement rates did not change from last year. However, there was decrease of 0.2% for the overall district disagreement rate. This change is not considered significant.

Survey Results: Individual Items

Overall, 26 of 35 items (74%) met or exceeded a 60% agreement rate and only four items had agreement rates below 50%. Classified staff in APS consistently express strong agreement with items concerning morale. Staff responses exceeded 90% agreement rates on questions about enjoyment of work, belief that their job is important, and taking pride in the work that they do. The majority of classified staff mostly agreed with questions about the clarity of the district's vision as all items in this category exceeded 60% agreement.

Staff responses to survey items related to perceptions of program support indicate lesser agreement than other survey categories with 4 of the 6 items in this category earning agreement rates less than 60%. Unlike last year, where the item with the lowest percentage of agreement was "I trust the people who make decisions that affect me in the district", for this year the items with the two lowest agreement rates were: "Based on my experience there's a positive relationship between the Classified Employee Council and the district" and "I am familiar with the functions of the Classified Employees Council". Additionally, there were the two items that saw the largest percentage decrease for this year.

The largest increase in agreement rates this year is in staff perceptions that there is a spirit of teamwork and cooperation at their work sites. Table 3 presents agreement and change rates by item and category.

Conclusions

- The response rate for the 2014 Classified Staff survey decreased by 5 percentage points this year (51% to 46%). 75% of the respondents indicated that they worked at school sites.
- The overall aggregate agreement rate did not change this year (68.2% to 68.2%) indicating satisfaction among classified staff with the overall climate in APS.
- Most survey items continue to show moderate agreement rates and remain higher than agreement rates within both the Licensed and Administrative/Professional-Technical staff surveys. Individual item agreement rates experienced very limited change between-years with most changing by less than 3%.
- Areas of strength are related to understanding work responsibilities, feeling pride in work, enjoyment of work, and seeing one's work as valuable. Areas of concern continue to be the perception of trust in district decision-makers and around the Classified Employees Council.
